

i2RDC

Don't let your community businesses be trapped into doing their commercial banking with the big box banks! Geographic location, number of branch locations or product capabilities are no longer obstacles for bringing in commercial accounts!

With i2RDC, our integrated remote deposit capture your business customers scan their checks to create a digital deposit which can be sent to the bank for electronic deposit right into their account. The images are immediately available for viewing or researching through their i2OLB, our integrated net banking, account. Best of all, they never have to leave their office to get this done! No more writing out deposit slips, driving to the bank, or utilizing night deposit drops.

Industry experts state that financial institutions that offer a remote deposit capture solution will have a distinct competitive advantage over those who do not. The process of remote deposit capture has been called "The most important development the (U.S.) banking industry has seen in years" by the Federal Reserve and others. Almost all of the Cash Management RFP's (Request for Proposals) that the largest banks in the USA receive now request information on this service! Furthermore, nearly all of the top banks in the USA have either just launched the service, or are well on their way to doing so.

Simple, secure and feature rich, i2RDC delivers! Think 'out of the box' and offer an integrated remote deposit capture program to get business owners out of line at the big box banks and 'online' with yours! i2RDC allows your business customers to focus their time on doing what is most important to them – running their show!
